

To Whom it May Concern,

I was hacked, and there are very private photos and videos of me, and my girlfriend leaked all over the internet. We were very helpless even depressed on removing the contents, because we don't have the money to remove all the contents on pornography sites. In Malaysia, we don't have any agencies that protects cyber-crime victims or any organizations to help us. At that point, we look out for well-known content removal companies, who told me the sites were uncooperative and request for hefty amount of money for an unguaranteed removal.

Then we came across Internet Removals, they offered to help us pro bono in removing the content, telling me they were able to remove the content easily even when the sites were known as uncooperative by others. We were very grateful to have such a professional team to assist us in removing the embarrassing materials off pornography sites. Even when there are new posts on any pornography sites, I will update the team and they will act immediately without delay.

Internet Removals has shown their competency in removing unwanted contents online, and they were willing to help at any time.
